ADVANCED EDUCATIONAL PRACTICE Grad Dip / 2018/19 ENTRY

www.ucl.ac.uk/graduate/learnteach
This Graduate Diploma has been developed to enable participants to reflect on their own educational practice, taking a professional academic approach. The programme's presentation is either fully online for individual students or mixed mode for those joining a school-based cohort group (minimum of 20 participants for the whole programme which includes MA participants).

Degree summary

This programme has been developed to respond to educational practitioner needs in both UK and international settings.

- UCL Institute of Education offers a wide range of professional development programmes for education professionals, at all stages of their career. These programmes focus on developing practical skills and knowledge for the workplace and are intended to fit round a student's busy working life.
- They are designed as advanced training in a specialist area of education for experienced teachers, teaching assistants and others working in education and related fields.

This programme is delivered through a combination of workshops and tutorials to school-based cohort groups or fully online through our virtual learning environment (VLE) Moodle, to individuals. All participants are assessed by coursework (which may be an essay, portfolio or presentation) on completion of each module and receive both formative written assessment on a draft and summative written assessment following final submission.

Degree structure

Mode: Full-time: 1 year; Part-time: 2 years
Location: London, Bloomsbury

Students undertake modules to the value of 120 credits. The programme consists of four optional 30-credit modules.

Students are able to exit with a Graduate Certificate on successful completion of two 30 credit modules (60 credits).
