LATE ANTIQUE AND BYZANTINE STUDIES MA / 2018/19 ENTRY

www.ucl.ac.uk/graduate/history
Late Antique and Byzantine Studies MA

This MA offers students the opportunity to specialise in an exciting and multi-faceted field of study that covers the history and culture of the Mediterranean world during the long millennium from the foundation of Constantinople (modern Istanbul) in 324 to the fall of the Byzantine empire in 1453.

Degree summary

Students gain a thorough grounding in key aspects of and approaches to late antique and Byzantine studies. They acquire necessary research skills (ancient languages, palaeography, epigraphy, papyrology) and develop their critical and conceptual understanding of the field through a variety of disciplines (history, literature, material culture, philosophy).

- UCL History enjoys an outstanding international reputation for its research and teaching.
- This intercollegiate programme is taught jointly with King’s College London and Royal Holloway, University of London, and students benefit from the international expertise and wealth of resources that the three colleges have to offer.
- Located in Bloomsbury, UCL History is just a few minutes’ walk to the British Library, the British Museum and the research institutes of the University of London, including the Warburg Institute and the Institute of Historical Research. UCL is ideally located at the heart of various historical societies and academic communities.

The programme is delivered through a combination of seminars, lectures, workshops and library visits. Assessment is through unseen examinations, coursework essays and the dissertation.

Degree structure

Mode: Full-time: 1 year; Part-time: 2 years
Location: London, Bloomsbury

Students undertake modules to the value of 180 credits. The programme consists of one core language or research skills module (40 credits), optional modules (80 credits), and a research dissertation (60 credits).

CORE MODULES
- Either one language acquisition module, or a research skills module (40 credits). These include:
  - Beginners Ancient Greek for Research
  - Intermediate Ancient Greek for Research
  - Beginners Latin for Research
  - Intermediate Latin
  - Sources and Methods in Ancient History
  - Greek Epigraphy
  - Greek Papyrology
  - Latin Epigraphy

OPTIONAL MODULES
- Optional modules will be finalised in Spring 2018. Please contact the department for more information. The following optional modules were available in 2017/18 and this is an indicative list only:
  - Byzantium and the First Crusade
  - Byzantium and the Fourth Crusade
  - Byzantium & the West, A.D. 800-1000
  - Cities of God: making the Late Antique City
  - Codes and Practice: The World of Roman Law
  - Cyprus from Late Antiquity to the Renaissance
  - The Empire of Constantinople
  - Homer’s Legacy
  - Identity and Power in Medieval Europe, AD 500-1300
  - The Late Roman and Early Byzantine City
  - Living in Byzantium: Material Culture and Built Environment
  - The Making of the Christian Empire, AD 284-425
  - Medieval Papacy
  - Philosophy under the Roman Empire

DISSERTATION/REPORT
- All students attend the Introduction to Byzantium seminar, leading to an independent research project which culminates in a dissertation of up to 12,000 words.
Your career

Graduates of the programme are equipped with the skills necessary for further doctoral study in this field. The programme also leads to careers in research or teaching, cultural management, general management, civil service and banking.

Employability

Debates, small group seminars and tutorials help students to acquire strong presentation and negotiation skills for their future career. Likewise the analytical and research skills gained by students on this programme are highly valued by employers from a range of industries. There are many additional activities available, both within the department and the wider UCL community, to help students focus on employability skills whilst they are here, for example, departmental careers talks and networking opportunities with history alumni.
Entry requirements

A minimum of an upper second-class Bachelor’s degree in a relevant discipline from a UK university or an overseas qualification of an equivalent standard. A basic knowledge of a relevant ancient or medieval language is a prerequisite.

English language proficiency level

If your education has not been conducted in the English language, you will be expected to demonstrate evidence of an adequate level of English proficiency.

The level of English language proficiency for this programme is: Advanced

Information about the evidence required, acceptable qualifications and test providers is provided at: www.ucl.ac.uk/graduate/english-requirements

Your application

Students are advised to apply as early as possible due to competition for places. Those applying for scholarship funding (particularly overseas applicants) should take note of application deadlines.

When we assess your application we would like to learn:

// why you want to study Late Antique and Byzantine Studies at graduate level
// why you want to study Late Antique and Byzantine Studies at UCL
// what particularly attracts you to this programme
// how your academic background meets the demands of a challenging academic environment
// where you would like to go professionally with your degree

Together with essential academic requirements, the personal statement is your opportunity to illustrate whether your reasons for applying to this programme match what the programme will deliver.

Application fee: There is an application processing fee for this programme of £75 for online applications and £100 for paper applications. More details about the application fee can be found at www.ucl.ac.uk/prospective-students/graduate/taught/application.

FEES AND FUNDING 2018/19 ENTRY

// UK: £10,140 (FT), £5,120 (PT)
// EU: £10,140 (FT), £5,120 (PT)
// Overseas: £21,160 (FT), £10,740 (PT)

The tuition fees shown are for the year indicated above. Fees for subsequent years may increase or otherwise vary. Further information on fee status, fee increases and the fee schedule can be viewed on the UCL Current Students website. Full details of funding opportunities can be found on the UCL Scholarships website: www.ucl.ac.uk/scholarships

APPLICATION DEADLINE

All applicants: 27 July 2018

Details on how to apply are available on the website at: www.ucl.ac.uk/graduate/apply

CONTACT

Mr Ben Karniely, Admissions and Programme Assistant

Email: b.karniely@ucl.ac.uk

Telephone: +44 (0)20 3108 4231

EU referendum

For up-to-date information relating to specific key questions following the UK’s decision to leave the EU, please refer to www.ucl.ac.uk/eu-referendum