In the midst of today’s rapid-fire iteration, innovation and growth, entrepreneurs and business leaders in the 21st century need to do more than simply keep up. The UCL MBA, global and online, gives high-achieving professionals the skills they need to lead organisations and manage a range of critical functions in a fast-paced, global business landscape.

Degree summary

The programme structure stresses the application use of data, technology and information to address critical issues, guide business choices and navigate uncertain situations in a global context. Throughout the programme, students develop a strong foundational understanding of business functions, processes and practices, as well as specialised knowledge in three focal areas, preparing graduates to succeed in multifaceted, technology-intensive ecosystems.

Inspired by UCL’s long history of progressive values, disruptive research and an inclusive approach to education, the MBA programme shapes data-driven leaders who harness diverse sources of information and analytics to reimagine business paradigms and solve complex challenges.

Collaboration and relationship-building are central features of the programme’s online delivery model. Every week, you will attend live classes with fellow students and UCL academics from around the globe. Small class sizes and interactive features, including breakout rooms, ensure that you are able to engage in rich discussion and build lasting connections with other members of the UCL community. Immersion experiences allow you to further enhance the relationships you’ve established via the online degree. Located in Canary Wharf, the UCL School of Management campus also offers you direct access to London’s bustling financial district.

The MBA will be delivered through distance learning via an online campus and classroom technology facilitated by our delivery partner – 2U. Assessment methods will include case analysis, quantitative problem sets, reflective self-analysis, essays, reflection papers, quizzes, classroom exercises, business plans, presentations, simulation results, critical analysis reports, and tests (timed and untimed).

Degree structure
